If there is nothing else I must do I'm willing, with the 28th or the 30th probably being better for me. I can't forecast what may develop. I am in litigation, for example. Instead of air I'd use train because there will be driving (120 miles) and parking (about $4.00 a day) costs. It really will require three days for one there because of travel time. To be there 8 a.m. I'd have to be there the night before and have a place to stay. Probably Friday would be better if it ends at 2 because with good connections I could get home that night. I really am overloaded. But I could use this trip to take care of possible business in NYC, where I d have to change trains anyway. As of now I can't honestly say more. When you have time I'd appreciate a schedule from NYC. Sincerely,
